Conference on New Perspectives on Trafficking in Human Beings

Call for Participation – International Conference

The Research Group on Combatting Human Trafficking at the Faculty of Law, University of Pécs is organizing an international English-language conference entitled “Innovative Research Approaches in the Fight Against Human Trafficking.” The event will offer insights into the most recent studies conducted in the field of human trafficking.

The aim of the conference is to showcase the activities of our research group and our international partners, while also fostering dialogue between academia and professional practice. To this end, researchers from eight different countries will share their experiences in studying human trafficking, alongside practitioners—including representatives from the International Justice Mission and Victim Support Europe—who will present real-world perspectives from the field.

We hereby invite interested researchers and professionals to participate in the conference.

Date: May 14–16, 2025

Venue: University of Pécs, Faculty of Law, “A” Building, 3rd Floor, Irk Albert Lecture Hall (7622 Pécs, 48-as tér 1, Hungary)
